Information on Blackboard discussion strands:

Required course readings will be discussed during audio conferences and through structured discussion strands on Blackboard. There are three reading assignments which correspond to three designated discussion strands on Blackboard. For each strand/ reading assignments, there is a corresponding prompt. Students will have three responsibilities for each of the three strands: 1) Respond to the initial prompt 2) Read, reflect on, and respond to the responses of two of your classmates to the initial prompt and 3) Read your classmates' reflections on your initial response and write a short follow-up reply authorizing their responses. Expectations for each of the three components are as follows:

WRITING ASSISTANCE FOR UAF DISTANCE STUDENTS:

What is the UAF Writing Center? UAF's Writing Center offers distance students the opportunity to improve their writing through distance tutoring. Student tutors at the Writing Center, located on the Fairbanks campus, can help with brainstorming and generating topics, organizing ideas, developing research strategies, using a variety of citation styles, and editing for clarity and correctness.

What Services Can I Expect? We will collaborate with you on a one-to-one basis with any aspect of your writing: planning, drafting, and revising. We can also help you discover ways of improving grammar, consequences will be implemented by the instructor, and the student can choose to appeal their final course grade through the UAF grade appeals process following the completion of the course.

~~Consequences: The following consequences are commonly used for plagiarism, cheating and participating in an~~

- A mark of 0 on an assignment
- Reduction of a grade in a course
- A grade of F for a course.

~~Connection with UAF School of Education Conceptual Framework~~

The overarching goal of the UAF School of Education is "to prepare professional educators who are culturally responsive, effective practitioners." This course directly reflects that goal by: helping interns
