Number of credits. Credits are assigned at the beginning of the semester when students enroll, but may be subject to change as the result of consultation between the student and professor. One credit of 488 is reserved generally for library or small computational projects. In general, 2 credits provides an absolute minimum amount of time to accomplish a laboratory project; the usual lab-based project will require about 3 credits per semester. More than 3 credits per semester generally will not be approved. Each credit of 488 corresponds to an average weekly minimum of 3 writing, and reading outside of lab. Finding a project. New 488 students, or those working with a different professor, must

The grading scale is straight letter grades with no \pm -. The cutoffs bwtween the A, B, C, D, and F grades are 90%, 80%, 70%, and 60%.

Attendance. Establish a regular schedule of attendance in the lab in consultation with your mentor. You may also be asked to attend a regular research discussion with your mentor, and/or group meetings, which are informal research or literature discussion sessions held every so often during the semester. In addition to our class's weekly meetings (described above), regular
